Dudley
Metropolitan Borough Council

April 2019

Welcome

Welcome to Dudley, the heart of the Black Country. The borough includes the towns of Dudley, Stourbridge, Brierley Hill and Halesowen and is about 30 minutes west of Birmingham in the West Midlands. The Black Country derives its name from its industrial past of coal mines and blast furnaces during its heyday of iron and steelmaking. Today it is built on proud traditions, industry and rich culture.

With a wide range of events and activities across our visitor attractions to locally brewed ales and beers in our historic pubs, there is something for everyone.

There are 16 miles of navigable canals, including several walks, cycle routes and moorings for boaters. With seven local nature reserves, one national nature reserve and a number of local parks there are plenty of outdoor leisure activities for all ages.

Dudley is associated with famous faces including Sir Lenny Henry, Duncan Edwards, James Whale, Billy Dainty and Dorothy Round; to mention a few.

Further information can be found at Dudley Council Plus or at www.discoverdudley.org.uk where you can also subscribe to the Discover Dudley e-newsletter filled with information on events taking place across the borough.

Enjoy your visit. Expect the unexpected.

Archives & Local History Centre

Want to discover more about yourself and your area?
This is the place to start.

This fabulous centre allows you to explore the wonderful heritage preserved there. The fantastic collections include the Papal Bull (over 800 years old!); parish records; historic photographs and plans; glass recipe and pattern books, wonderful maps and even a walking stick!

Find out what the inspiring collections can reveal; join in at amazing events; explore one of the illuminating exhibitions; or book a fascinating behind the scenes tour. Pop in to reveal more than just your history; discover more about your area, your family and ultimately yourself. The centre is also home to Dudley Museum at the Archives and the headquarters of the aspiring Black Country UNESCO Global Geopark.

Discover Dudley, discover yourself!

Black Country Living Museum

Visit the award-winning Black Country Living Museum and join in with 300 years of history like no other. Immerse yourself in the sights, sounds, smells and tastes of the past as you explore period shops and houses and discover what it was like to live and work in one of the world's most industrialised landscapes.

Ride a bus or take a tram down to the museum's canal side village. Explore the past as you step inside the shops and houses that were once in the Black Country. Discover weird and wonderful treatments of the past in Emile Doo's Chemist; indulge yourself in the Victorian sweet shop; test your times tables in the school or watch a film in the 1930s Lime Light Cinema. Once you've worked up an appetite, grab a bag of traditionally cooked fish and chips or quench your thirst in the Bottle & Glass Inn where a warm welcome awaits.

Shopping

Town centres

The four town centres of Dudley, Stourbridge, Halesowen and Brierley Hill offer a wealth of fascinating history and a variety of shops for you to visit. Architectural trail guides are available.

The £6.7 million regeneration of Dudley's historic market place has transformed the town. High quality paving, feature lighting and new street furniture have been installed, as well as a brand new market. A welcome new element for Dudley is the addition of several new artworks which celebrate Dudley's rich heritage. Medieval passageways have been conserved, the beautiful Victorian fountain has been restored, statues renovated, and a history trail introduced.

Linking the marketplace is Castle Hill, comprising Dudley Zoological Gardens, Black Country Living Museum, The Archives and Local History Service and Dudley Canal and Tunnel Trust. The nearby Castlegate complex contains restaurants, Costa Coffee, Bowlplex and a Showcase Cinema. There is plenty to entertain locals and visitors alike.

Black Country UNESCO Global Geopark

Geoparks are a unique collection of special sites around the world, recognised for their geology, all of which are internationally important.

The Black Country is a place where coral seas, steamy swamps, scorching deserts, icy wastelands, mines and furnaces created unique and wonderful landscapes over 430 million years of geological time.

Between 1600 and the 1960s intensive heavy industry covered most of the area and earned this region international recognition as 'The Workshop of the World', where anything could be designed and made.

This industrialisation saw much of the landscape 'black by day and red by night': due to the coal mining wastes, furnace slag heaps and glow of the furnaces at night.

Today it is an amazing place to explore with many 'hidden gems' of world class natural and man-made wonders. These are classed as individual geosites such as Wren's Nest National Nature Reserve within the aspiring Black Country UNESCO Global Geopark.

If you are looking for information, or wish to become an ambassador to support the work, visit www.blackcountrygeopark.org.uk
